Virginians as Speakers.

Governor Montague will speak at a big Democratic meeting at Elizabeth, N. J., on the 25th of this month, if he yislds to the wishes of the Democratic Congressional Committee. Secretary Edwards wrote His Excellency yesterday, asking him to make the address, but has not received a reply as yet. He is afraid His Excellency might fail to receive the letter, as he is not in Richmond. It is the purpose of the committee to use the Governor as frequently as he will consent in various States during the campaign.

Representaive Hal. Flood, of the Tentit Virginia District, was at Democratic headquarters to-day. He was in Washington only a short time, and came to attend to soppe urgent business matters. He left for home this afternoon. The Chairman Byrley, of the Republican Congressional Committee, has postponed the committee meeting, which was called to be held at London, Ky., to-day, to meet at Middlebaro to-morrow.

His reasons for the postponement are certain alleged threats of intimidation and violence at London, and alleged malice of London people against Dr. Hunter, one of the candidates for the Republican congressional nomination.

An injunction has been granted by Judge Moss preventing the counting of the full Bell county vote.

BERLIN, August 18.—Four columns of German troops attacked the Hereros, near Hamkari, German Southwest Africa, on the night of August 11th. The fighling continued all day August 12th. The natives were defeated with heavy loss.

Five German officers, including Count Yon Arnim, and nineteen men were killed. Six officers, among them Baron Yon Watter, and fifty-two men were wounded. Two are missing. Thousands of cattle were captured.

The natives, who numbered about 6,000 fighting men under old Chief Samuel Maherero to whom the younger leaders had turned after the former reverses, were concentrated in the Waterberg Mountains. With their women, children and flocks, they occupied a plain of meadow land, roughly estimated at 250,000 acres, on which they had 50,000 head of cattle and 50,000 sheep, goats, etc.

The approaches to the plain were difficult passes, so that the Germans had severe work forcing them. The number of the Germans is not accurately known, but an ine companies and four and a half batteries, with some irregular troops, were engaged, the total probably was about 2,000 men.

WEST VIRGINIA DEMOCRATIC.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic State Committee of West Virginia to-morrow; also a meeting of the Executive Committee.

The enthusiasm and the confidence of West Virginia Democrats are contagious.
They appear to be without a serious doubt that the State will be Democratic in November. They believe that three out of five ropresentatives in Congress will be Democrats, that the Governor will be a Democrat, that a Democratic Legislature will be chosen to elect a successor to Senator Scott, and that the electoral vote of the State will be cast for Parker and Davis.

This is not mere talk. Of the hundreds of West Virginian Democrats here, there is not one who does not declare the State will be Democratic by anywhere from five thousand to ten thousand.

Senator Davis was the guest of honor-at a brilliant dinner to-night. He was in the ball room until midnight. He will make his speech of acceptance to-morrow; will be the honor guest at &sper tomorrow night, and will also attend the german to be given in his honor.

Mr. Williams's apeech will require an hour to deliver. Senator Davis's speech of acceptance will consume only about ten minutes in its delivery.

hour to deliver. Senator Davis's speech of acceptance will consume only about ten minutes in its delivery.

A NEW PARAGRAPH.

It is said that Mr. Davis submitted the speech to his cousin, Senator Gorman, who expressed his warm congratulations upon its tone and general character. But Mr. Davis was not entirely satisfied with it, and this afternoon, after conferring with Senator Daniel and Representative Williams, he added a paragraph concerning labor, which is said to be of very great significance. While it is more or less generally known that this addition to his speech has been made, only three or four know its tenor, and there is great curiosity felt as to its nature.

A gentleman who is in a position to know said to night he believed the speech of Mr. Davis would prove probably the most valuable contribution to the Democratic campaign. Governor by Idaho Democrats.

LEWISTON, IDAHO, Aug. 16.—Henry Heitfeld of Lewiston, former United States Senator, was moninated for governor by accumation by the Democratic State Convention to high. The nomination was seconded by delegates from the principal Mormon counties.

The Dubois-Heitfeld for regained control of the Idaho Democratic Convention to-day, routing the Mormon forces after a ferce fight. Last night the anti-Dubois forces succeeded in striking the anti-Mormon plank out of the platform by a vote of 183 to 181. When the convention assembled to-day the following resolutions were presented and carried through by the Dubois forces, led by the Senator himself:

We demand the extermination of polygamy and unlawful cohabitation within the borders of Idaho and the complete separation of church and State in official affairs. We pledge he Democratic party to enact such legislation as will sventually suppress this evil.

(By Associated Press.)

EBOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—George Foster
Peabody, the treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, arrived this afterneon from his summer home at Lake George and was driven to Rosemount.

He had nothing to say concerning his visit. He said incidentally that the first campaign contribution he received as treasurer was from an Episuopal clergyman over eighty years old. The clergyman wrote that while he did not know whether he would live to vote for Parker and Davis, he wanted to send a dollar, all he could afford, with the hope that the campaign fund would be made up of the dollars of a million voters rather than the larger gifts of rich men.

shouted the crowd, and they struck down the man who had raised the weapon. Then they threw themselves upon the boy and overpowered him.

Dragged the Negroes Out.

Dragged the Negroes Out.

The small guard about the prisoners withdrew into the room and closed the door. The mob crashed against it, burstling it as though it were an eggshell. The prisoners were at their mercy, all resistance having been beaten down. Cato, Reed, Handy Bell and the other prisoners cowered before the crowd. They dragged Cato and Reed out, releasing Bell into the hands of the few soldiers left there as soon as they learned that he was not Reed, for whom they had mistaken him. Heed was taken down one stairway with a rope about his neck and Cato down the other, both pleading for their lives.

By then the crowd numbered 500. They dragged the men along shouting and cheering along the roadway leading to the Hodges homestead, where the five members of the family hal been murdered and burned. That was their destination. The heat was so intense that the crowd wearled when two miles of the six mile route had been traversed. Going seventy-five yards from the road, the crowd halted, The two negroes were made to seat themselves on a log. They were took they had but a short time to live, and that they should confess.

Reed Confessed: Cato Denied.

Reed Confessed; Cato Denied.

Reed Confessed; Cato Denied.
Reed was the first to speak. He confessed, implicating other negrees, as he had in the court-room. He denied, however, that he had taken an active part in the murder.

Cato answered incoherently. The crowd moved across a field to a strip of woodland. Several men climbed to branches and called for ropes.

"Burn them!" "Burn them!", shouted the crowd. Cato begged to be shot or hanged, saying he was innocent; that he had had no part in the crime. Some of the more humane wanted to grant his request, but they were in the minority. The rest wanted to visit the same death upon the Hodges family.

A member of the moh made a speech recounting the horrors of the crime. This influmed the crowd to the burning pitch. To a large stump, twelve feet high, the men were chained with their backs to the stump. With trace chains the men were lashed to the stump.

Then a wagon load of pine-wood was hauled to the spot. It was piled around the men, and then gallons of kerosene was thrown over them.

A photographer was present and the

A photographer was present and the crowd was cleared back that he might get several views of the men bound to the stake and ready for the burning.

Flames Drink Up Life Blood.

The scene, which followed, beggars de scription. Frenzied cheers rent the al as men almost crazed with the hatre of the men being punished, saw the cruof the men being punished, saw the cruei flames drinking up the life blood. Just as the match was applied to the pyre one of those in the front asked Reed didn't he want to tell the truth before he died. "Yes, sir; I killed Mr. and Mrs. Hodges," he replied, "Who killed the children?" he was asked.

asked.

"Handy Bell," came the response, as the finnes leaped upwards and further questioning was impossible in the wild tumult.

The spectacle was frightful. As the flames touched Reed's naked oil-soaked skin, he twisted his head around in an undergrow to choke himself and avoid the fearful torture. Only once did he complain. He said:

"Lord, have mercy."

A Collar of Fire.

Cato screamed in agony, and begged that he be shot. His heavy suit of hair, which was oil-soaked, was almost the first thing the flames fastened on, and screaming with agony, while the henty rope became a collar of fire around his neck, a thrill of horror ran through the frames of the more timid. Before the flames had quenched Cato's life the rope was burned in two, and his head swung from side to side as he endeavored to avoid the flery tongues. By effort airmost superhuman he writhed under the close locked chains. For only about three minutes was he visible to the crowd before the great pile of fagots made a wall of flame which the wind wiped around on Cato's bedy and hid him from view. He was the first to exhibit unconsciousness, and was perhaps the first to die. Before the flames progressed very far up his body his head sank forward, and many believed that the fire got into his lungs and killed him. As Cato's head swung to and fro some of the more excited members of the party commenced throwing lightwood knots at it. Soon as it was seen that the men were dead the crowd commenced dispersing. A large number remained behind, however, piling more fuel on, until both bodies were burned, all except the trunks. Others employed themselves in thrashing out the fire, which commenced spreading along the dry streaks of pine needles.

Visitors Pick Up Souvenirs.

Late this afternoon, after the last member of the mob had left the scene, hundreds of citizens, who had in nowise participated in the execution, repaired to the scene, and many remained until long after nightfall, picking up whatever gouvenirs they could find. Conspicuous among the crowds were a number of small boys in knee pants.

SAVANNAH, GA., August 18.—To-night all the Savannah troops returned from Statesboro. Among those who had been on guard at the courthouse when the assault was made were a number who bore bruless and marks of the fray. None of these, however, were serious.

Canitain Robert M. Hiltch, who commanded the troops on guard, and for the relief of which 90 men were sent from here this afternoon, would make no statement, stating that he would report to the proper authorities. He has made out such for the adjutant-general.

The solders, however, accuse the deputy sheriffs of collusion with the lynchers. In fact, they declare that the deputies openly aided the lynchers in overpowerful deputy secured Captain Hitch and led him down a staliway to the lawn outside, where his sword and platol were taken from him. When Captain Hitch made his way back up stairs the prisoners had been hustled away.
